Free for Stomach and Bowels

We are in receipt of letters from Mrs. Eva Gaskins, 304 Madison St., Topeka, Kans., and Mr. P. H. Gavellas, Wagoner, Okla., as well as many others, telling about the wonderful results they have secured in the cure of their stomach and liver troubles by the use of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin.

This remedy, as all readers doubtless know, has been before the public for a generation and is now being more extensively used than any other remedy for stomach, liver and bowel complaints. According to reliable testimony, it seems to be a very quick and lasting cure for constipation, indigestion and dyspepsia, liver trouble, biliousness, headaches, sour stomach, gas on the stomach, drowsiness after eating and similar disorders. It is a liquid with tonic effect, and so mild and gentle in action that a child as well as a grown person can take it, in fact, it has no equal for children, women and old people.

It arouses the flow of gastric juice, and by a peculiar action trains the stomach and bowel muscles to again do their work naturally, and in time medicines of all kinds can be dispensed with. A free sample bottle can be had for trial by sending your address to the doctor, for in this way Mrs. Gaskins, Mr. Gavellas and many others first learned of the cure. Later, when satisfied it is the remedy you need, do as others are doing and buy it of your druggist at fifty cents and one dollar a bottle.

Dr. Caldwell does not feel that the purchase of his remedy ends his obligation. He has specialized in stomach, liver and bowel diseases for over forty years and will be pleased to give the reader any advice on the subject free of charge. All correspondence ...

DESPERATE BATTLE ON TRAIN

A desperate battle was fought by Jas. Clendenning, of Coshocton, and Pennsylvania Railroad Officer Chas. Doney on the bumpers of a freight train between Isleta and Newcomerstown Monday noon. Clendenning escaped when the train stopped near Newcomerstown but was found later at the Newcomerstown station and after another rough and tumble fight he was overpowered and brought back to Coshocton. He is a brakeman on the C. & M. He spent the night in jail.

Tuesday morning he pleaded guilty to train-riding and resisting an officer. Squire Staats fined him $1 and costs on the first charge and $25 and costs on the second charge, remitting $15 of the latter. He paid a total of about $20 and was placed on probation.

When Clendenning started from Coshocton on a freight, Officer Doney boarded passenger train No. 10 and overtook the freight at Isleta. They fought while the train went at a rapid rate. One car had nothing but a coupling, the other having a wooden shelf for them to stand on. Doney flagged the train with his hat. Clendenning broke away but was found again at the station. His brother-in-law, Mr. Brode, put up the necessary cash for him.

They are very much impressed with the beauty and grandeur of the country as well as the healthful climate.

TOO LITTLE FOLKS WERE MADE HAPPY

Christmas, 1910, will long be remembered as a real and sure Christmas by at least 106 little folks of Coshocton, who were the happy guests of the Epworth League of Grace M. E. church Monday at a big Christmas feast.

With the assistance of the teachers of the city schools about 180 little folks had been picked out who it was thought would find an unusually happy Christmas by being the guests at a big chicken dinner at the church dining rooms, and written invitations were sent them. Moreover, the little guests were called for by gentlemen in automobiles and taken to and from the church to their homes. Of all the invitations sent out, 106 responded, and the 61 fat chickens that had been provided, together with all kinds of Xmas cheer, speedily disappeared. At the close of the feast the little folks formed in line and marched to the auditorium, singing "America," lustily. There an impromptu program was given in which one of the redoubtable "gold dust twins" played an important part both as a performer and as assistant master of ceremonies. Altogether about 25 youngsters responded, giving recitation and various "pieces" they had learned for school events, and they all acquitted themselves well. Before the happy day ended they all gathered around the Xmas tree and everyone was given a pretty little gift and a sack of candy and popcorn, by Santa Claus himself who arrived all in furs and tinsel.

The Fortune Hunter

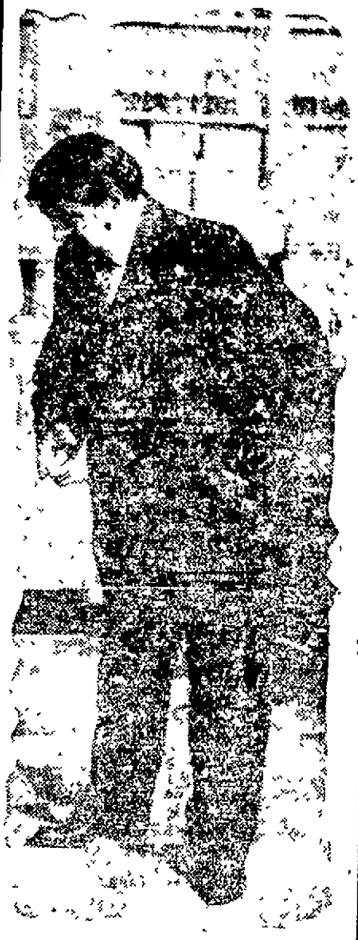
Novelized by LOUIS JOSEPH VANCE From the Play of the Same Name by WINCHELL SMITH
Copyright 1910, by Winchell Smith and Louis Joseph Vance

"Gee! I can't hardly wait! Only," Tracey continued, disconsolate, "it ain't no use, really. She's so purty an' swell an' old man Tuthill's so rich—not like the Lockwoods, but rich all the samee—an' I'm only the son of the livery stable man an' fat an'—all that—an'"—

"Nonsense, Tracey!" Nat interrupted firmly. "If you really want her and will follow the rules I give you it's a cinch."

"Honest, Mr. Duncan?"

"I guarantee it, Tracey Listen to me." And Duncan expounded Kel-



"I WAS ONLY THINKIN' ABOUT ANGIE"

logg's rules at length adapting them to Tracey's circumstances, of course, and throughout maintained the gravity of a graven image "You try and you'll see if I'm not right," he concluded

"Gosh, I believe you are!" Tracey cried admiringly. "I'm just goin' to see how it works."

"Do, if you'd favor me Tracey"

"Say, Mist—Nat, you've treated me somethin' immense"

"You mistake Tracey I haven't treated anybody since I've been here I'm on the wagon"

"I mean just now, when we was talkin' 'bout me an Angie I'd—I'd like to help you the same way if I could."

"You would?" Duncan eyed the boy apprehensively, wondering what was coming

"Yes, indeedy, I would An' p'haps I kin tell you somethin' that will"

"Speak, I beg"

"You—er—you're tryin' to court Josie Lockwood, ain't you?"

"Oh!" said Nat "So that was it! That's a secret, Tracey" he averred

"All right. Only if you are she's your'n"

"Just how do you figure that out?"

"Oh, I kin tell She was in here tonight with Roland"

"Tonight?"

"Yes, just afore you come home from prayer meetin' She was lookin' for you, an when she seen you wasn't here she wouldn't wait for no soda nor nothin', said she had a headache an was goin' home Roland went with her, but she didn't want him to You just missed seein' her"

"Heavens, what a blow!"

"But Roland's takin' her home needn't upset you none"

"Thank you for those kind words, Tracey" Nat sighed and passed a troubled hand across his brow. "You're a true friend"

"I'm tryin' to be Nat, same's you are to me" Tracey thought this over "But you ain't foolin' me, are you?" he asked presently "I mean 'bout bein' a true friend?"

"Why should I?"

"Ah, I dunno. You're so cur'us sometimes. I ain't never sure whether you mean what you're sayin' or not."

"Oh, don't say that."

"Well, I ain't the only one. Everybody in town says they don't understand you half the time."

Duncan moved over to Tracey. His face was entirely serious. "Tracey," he said, dropping a hand on the boy's shoulder, "do you know, nothing in life is harder to bear than not to be understood?"

Tracey wrestled with this for a moment, but it was beyond him.

"Then why the dickens don't you talk so's folks 'll know what it's about?" he demanded heatedly.

"Because—hm!" Duncan hesitated, with his enigmatic smile "Well, because the rules don't require it."

"What d' you mean by that?" Tracey exploded.

Nat couldn't explain, so he countered neatly "This is one of your Angie evenings, isn't it, Tracey?"

"Yep, but"—

"Well, you hurry along I'll close up the shop"

To Duncan, now seated on the edge of an upturned box in a corner of the store, came an idea He drew a roll of bills from his pocket and stripped off the top one.

"Here's $5," he said to Tracey "Girls can usually be captured by judicious expenditures. I wish you luck"

"Ah, thanks, Mr Duncan."

"But, Tracey"—

The boy paused at the door. "What?"

"Remember what I told you. Don't you make too much love. Let Angie do that."

"Gosh, that 'll be the hardest rule of all for me!" A shadow clouded Tracey's honest eyes. "But I got to do it that way, anyway I can't ask her to marry me yit I can't afford to get married"

"It's a contrary world, Tracey, a contrary world," sighed Nat in a tone of deepest melancholy

"What makes you say that? You kin git married 's soon 's you want to"

"You think so, Tracey?"

"All you got to do is ask Josie"—

"I'm almost afraid you're right"

"Why? Don't you want to git married?"

"Well"—Nat smiled—"no. Don't believe I do not just now, at any rate."

"Well, you don't have to if you don't wanta. G'd night."

"Yes, I do," Nat told Tracey's back "The rules say so If the girl asks me I must"

He grimaced ruefully beneath his wisp of a mustache "Anyhow, I've got a few months left."

* * * * * * *

So the winter wore away, and as spring drew nigh upon our valley Duncan seemed to grow perturbed, even as he had been in the autumn before Betty went away

Duncan urged Sam to move his household from over the store to a house. He pointed out that a separate residence distinctly befitted the dignity of a man who was at once a prominent inventor and one of Radville's leading merchants (vide a "Personal" in the late issue of the Radville Citizen), to say nothing of the social position of his daughter—meaning Betty And the house Duncan had his metaphorical eye upon was large enough to shelter Nat himself in addition to the Graham family

Graham fell in with the scheme without a murmur of dubiety or dissent. Whatever Nat proposed in Sam's understanding was right and feasible, and even if it wasn't really so Nat would make it so They engaged the house and moved Miss Ann Sophronsiba Whitmarsh, a maiden lady of forty-five or thereabouts popularly known as "Phrony," had been coming in by the day to "do for" old Sam in the rooms above the shop She was engaged as resident housekeeper for the new establishment and entered upon her duties with all the discreet joy of one whose maternal instincts have been suppressed throughout her life. She mothered Sam, and she mothered Nat, and she panted in expectation of the day when she would have Betty to mother.

CHAPTER XVIII.

JOSIE LOCKWOOD came home again for the Easter holidays, but she didn't return to finish her term in the New York school—just why we never discovered The Lockwoods furnished us with no really satisfying explanation. They said that Josie didn't like New York, but I've always doubted that, especially since Josie married and insisted on moving straight away to that metropolis I suspect she didn't get along with the class of young women with whom she was thrown at school, and I'm pretty certain she was uneasy about Nat all the time she was so far away from him

It was during this period, between the Easter vacation and the end of the spring school term, that Roland Barnette's animosity toward Duncan became virulent.

Josie, of course, was prompt to oust Angie Tuthill from her place in the choir. After that she sang with Nat on Friday nights as well as Wednesdays and twice per Sunday Between whiles she was a pretty constant patron of the store There was no longer the least doubt in the collective mind of the town as to the inclination of Josie's affections.

The culmination came the day before Betty was to return—a day late in May I remember and a Friday at that.

It began along toward evening Duncan, alone in the store, was busy behind the prescription counter Absorbed with his task, he thought himself quite alone until a well kenned voice reached his ear

"Well!" it said unctuous with appreciation of the sight of him, "Old Dr Duncan!"

He let the pestle fall from his hand and jumped as if he had been struck with a pin His jaw dropped and his eyes bulged "Great Scott!" he cried and in a twinkling was round the counter, throwing himself into the arms of a man whom he hailed ecstatically "Harry, by all that's wonderful!" He fairly danced with delight "Henry Kellogg, Esquire!" he cried holding him at arms' length and looking him over "What in thunderation are you doing here?"

"On my way to Cincinnati on business. Thought I'd drop off for a night and size you up How are you?"

"Me? Look at me—picture of health Harry, you've made a new man of me" Duncan pranced round his friend in a mild frenzy "No booze, no smokes, no swears—work! I feel like a two-year-old. I could do a Marathon without turning a hair Watch me kick up my heels and neigh' And listen!" Nat crowed. "I'm a business man Didn't you believe it? Pipe my shop!"

El Paso Tex, Dec 27.—San Carlos, 15 miles from Lajitas, Tex, across the Mexican border, has fallen into the hands of the rebels, according to reliable reports received at both Alpine and Marfa, Tex. There have been a number of raids on Mexican ranches by insurgents near there but in each case they have given receipts for what they have taken "payable on the day of the victory to the Maderistas"

Praxedes Guerra, formerly identified with the E Flores Magon movement in St Louis and Los Angeles is commanding the insurgent forces that captured the train south of Juarez last Thursday, and this is taken to indicate that the Magonistas in the United States have joined the Maderistas in Mexico in a common cause against Diaz Magon was the provisional president and director of the revolution against Mexico three years ago when the battles of Las Vacas, Palomas and Canane were fought

MOB KILLS PRISONER

Receive Mysterious Tip as to Time of His Removal — Masked Men Invade Jail-

Hot Springs, Dec. 27.—Oscar Chitwood, charged with the murder of Sheriff Jake Houpt, was shot to death in the jailyard by a mob of masked men, who by some mysterious means obtained inside information as to the hour of his expected removal to the state penitentiary.

Recently he secured a change of venue for his trial and he was to have been taken to Benton, Ark Deputy Sheriff John Rutherford handcuffed Chitwood and put the second bracelet on his own wrist, preparatory to taking him to the police station, from whence they were to start for Benton.

Between the jail and the court house lays an enclosure built last September for the hanging of a murderer As the sheriff and his prisoner were passing through this enclosure three men with handkerchiefs over their faces met them Just outside the enclosure the rest of the masked mob waited

Deputy Throws Up Hands.

The deputy sheriff was ordered to throw up his hands and as soon as he stood there with his hands in the air the three masked men shot their bullets into Chitwood. Nothing was said, and when the prisoner fell to the ground, evidently dead, the masked men walked outside, rejoined their companions, and all disappeared.

County Prosecutor J. V Wood has begun an investigation. He wants to know how the mob discovered that Chitwood was to be removed from the jail. He subjected Deputy Sheriff Rutherford to a searching examination, and said afterwards that he was not satisfied with his story.

The order for Chitwood's removal was only received Sunday, and only a few officials knew of the plan for his removal. Chitwood was to have been taken to the police station and thence to a train for Little Rock where it was planned to hold him in the penitentiary for safe keeping until his trial at Benton began.

MRS. CAROLINE TEEPLES, Pima Ariz., writes: I feel more than thankful for the great good Swanson's 5-Drops has done in my family. My daughter came home suffering with Rheumatism in her lower limbs. She was suffering terribly, her limbs being so swollen. She had to go on crutches when she tried to help herself and most of the time she had to be carried around on a chair. The pain gradually extended to her stomach and then to her head and were so severe that she lost her mind. We called in three doctors but they gave us no encouragement and their medicine did us little good. We had to watch over her day and night. Finally we gave her your 5-Drops and it helped her right along. She was soon well again and has returned to her home. It was a great surprise to many people here, as all thought she could never be well again.

Who Was There That You Knew?

IN the shadowy ranks of those who marched to defeat or death or victory fifty years ago in the mighty conflict that convulsed this great nation, is there father or grandfather or uncle of yours? Would you like to see a photograph of him in that long ago day of his youth—a photograph that he never knew was taken? Perhaps we can show you one, and in any case, we can tell you a story, stranger than any detective fiction, of 3,500 priceless photographs that were lost and are found again.

3,500 Long Buried Photographs of the Civil War

THEY were taken by the greatest photographer in the United States of that day they were bought by the United States Government for $2,000 they were buried in the War Department for 50 years—they are buried there still But a duplicate set was kept by the photographer—who died poor and broken down that duplicate set was knocked from pillar to post for nearly 50 years until it was discovered by a New England collector J Pierpont Morgan tried to secure the collection—Ex President Garfield and General Benjamin F Butler said it was worth $150,000—yet with the help of the Review of Reviews the entire collection has been gathered into 10 great volumes and is placed within your reach at less than the value of one of the photographs. It is the one accurate important historical work of the Civil War—for the camera cannot lie It tells the story of the War you never heard before Taken under protection of the Secret Service, these photographs bring to light thousands of little-known phases of the war, they penetrate to strange places and record strange things

BUTCHERING AT ROSCOE MONDAY

A "butchering" at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Wilson at the Lock House north of Roscoe Monday proved to be one of the most pleasant events of the holidays. Three fine hgs were killed and a sumptuous meal was served. Those who assisted were: Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Crawford, of Coshocton, Mr. and Mrs. Francis Lower of Fresno, Frank Buker and Chas. Parks of the Eureka laundry, Coshocton; Mrs. Bessie Rose and Thos. Wilson and family, of Roscoe; John Miller, the expert marksman of Roscoe, who did the shooting, and Harry Schuler, of Coshocton, the expert sausage maker. It would be very difficult to tell who was the best man at the table as they all seemed to excell there.

HOGAN SLIGHT BESTED PAL

Billy Palmer of Washington Court House and Kid Hogan of Pittsburg boxed ten rounds on the Sixth Street theatre stage Monday afternoon to a draw. This decision, while not an official one, was generally conceived by the witnesses of the bout as being the real result of the contest. The bout was good, clean and one hard fought from the very beginning in which both men exchanged some neat blows. During the first of the battle Palmer was generally conceded the winner of the match but after the fifth round Hogan came back hard and evened up the score. Both men were about ev weight and length o were fact with their on their feet. It wa matches by far that off in Coshocton.

EDMUND LAMY BREAKS RECORD

New York Skater Does 220 Yard Dash in 17 2-5 Seconds.

Saranac Lake, N. Y., Dec. 27.—The world's skating record of 19 4-5 seconds for the 220-yard dash, which has been held by Leroy See since 1900, was broken by Edmund Lamy, who, paced by his brother Ernest, did the furlong in 17 2-5 seconds. The attempt against the record was made on the Pontiac rink track, which is seven laps to the mile.

THE THEATRE

At The Electric.

The two Bennett sisters in a boxing, wrestling and fencing act at The Electric for the first part of the week were given their training in boxing by Hugh McGann of this city. They are adepts with the gloves and show that women as well as men can handle their fists with ease and grace. They box three rounds. Miss Laura Bennett holds the Police Gazette medal for the champion woman wrestler of the world. The act throughout is a good and novel one.

Steppe & LeRoy in a singing and talking act are good. They crack some clever jokes and their songs are good.

At The Colonial.

The bill at The Colonial for the first part of the week is a good one, and well worth seeing. Marie McNeal a cornetist does some interesting work on the cornet and the bugles. She displays some brilliant technique not often displayed among the women cornetists.

The Original Orphan quartet are high classed entertainers. All four young men have exceptionally good voices and they "cut" some good melody. Their comedy which is in through the act is new and clean and really laughable.

COUNCIL WILL HOLD MEETING TOMORROW NIGHT

Christmas night proved a poor time for holding a council meeting. It was impossible to get a quorum present and a meeting will therefore be held Wednesday evening to dispose of a few pressing matters.

Mayor Cassingham having vetoed the semi-annual appropriation ordinance recently passed by the council, it will be necessary to consider the situation thoroughly. The mayor based his veto upon the fact that there is no ordinance fixing the salary of the health officer at $5 a month and the health board has granted an increase in salary to Health Officer Dr Marshall. The health board desired to place new duties in charge of the health officer and deemed it advisable to raise the salary. It was stated by William Compton, the new member of council, that the health officer will be expected to give careful attention to the testing of the milk sold in Coshocon and will have other new duties to perform. The matter will be threshed out at the meeting tomorrow evening.

The increase of $150 in Solicitor Adams' salary was reported to be illegal Monday evening and this matter will also be investigated.

It was found that the bill of $189 presented by the Vall Co. for printing the codified ordinances was $17 too high, the original price agreed upon having been $172. It was sent back for correction.

After Effects of the Grip.

It is fortunate that the Grip epidemic this year is milder in its action than in previous years This does not mean that is is less dangerous.

The after results of the Grip are apt to be exceedingly serious. Do not take any chances,—for the general weakness, and to allay all bronchial irritation after fever has passed, nothing equals Vinol, which is a delicious combination of the healthgiving properties of the cod's liver, with the grease eliminated and tonic iron added.

A lady from Long Branch, N. J., writes:—"The Grip left me in a nervous, weakened, run-down condition. After taking three bottles of Vinol I am better and stronger than I have been for years, and I cheerfully recommend Vinol to all who have been ill and need strength." (Name furnished on request.)

After Grip or any severe illness try a bottle of Vinol with the understanding that your money will be returned if it does not restore your vitality and strength.

COLLEGE BOYS TABOO HATS

WEST LAFAYETTE COLLEGE, DEC. 27.—The fall term of the college closed Friday Dec. 23. It has been a most satisfactory to both students and faculty, the attendance being larger than any previous time.

The students all went to their homes to spend the holiday vacation and all expect to come back next term. In addition to these several new students will be in, both in the litreary and commercial departments.

Prof Larrick not only presides over the commercial department but is doing splendid field work. He is ably assisted in his teaching by Miss Williams.

Prof. Kobler will spend the vacation with his family in Columbus.

Miss Leighton will spend the holidays in Youngstown and Miss Williams with her mother in Jeffersonville.

The boys are anticipating much pleasure to be derived from Winter athletics as the new "gym" will be used next term for the first.

Messrs. Lignor and Grudier are trying what exposure will do as a brain stimulant. They have worn no hats since entering school last September. They board a mile from the college but the days have never been cold enough yet to cause them to put a hat on.

Miss Leighton, Miss Huffan, Mr. Leighninger and Mr Johnson of the college went to Jewett to sing last Sunday Miss Ferugson accompanied them as pianist. They rendered the same music in the evening at the M. P. church at this place.

Miss Ella Harbourt of Mt. Pleasant who was in school here last year has accepted a position in the store of Loos and Wells and will enter upon her work the first of the year.

Several of the students have been playing in an orchestra in the choir of the M E. church and have been a great help to the music in that church

The winter term will begin Wednesday, Jan. 3 and a large attendance is looked for.

Hoxsey Smashes Record

Los Angeles, Dec 27 Arch Hoxsey, the Pasadena aviator, before a crowd of 75,000 people, broke the world's record for altitude, soaring up to a height of 11,171 feet or nearly 1,000 feet above the record of Letiagneux at Pau, France.

Hoxsey accomplished the feat in the face of a 40-mile wind that wrecked Hubert Latham's Antoinette monoplane. Hoxsey was carried 20 miles by the wind until he was over Venice-by-the-Sea. He alighted on the field in a series of spiral glides. The crowd went wild and carried him up and down in front of the grandstand. Hoxsey said "It blew so hard my machine could hardly hold its own against the gale It was so cold I feared the carburetor would freeze, but I kept on going up. Determined to beat the altitude record"

Baffled.

The word baffled now has a meaning entirely different from that applied to it 300 years ago. It is now understood to mean thwarted, foiled or disappointed, but then it was applied to the process of degradation by which a knight was disgraced. A baffled knight was one who had been pronounced guilty of conduct unbecoming one of his order and had accordingly been shorn of his plumes, his sword was broken before his eyes, his knightly robe torn away, his spurs cut off with a cleaver, and after being publicly clastised he was declared to be baffled. The word is used in this sense by Shakespeare and other writers of that time

Fortune Telling

Does not take into consideration the one essential to woman's happiness—womanly health.

The woman who neglects her health is neglecting the very foundation of all good fortune. For without health love loses its lustre and gold is but dross.

Womanly health when lost or impaired may generally be regained by the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription.

This Prescription has, for over 40 years, been curing delicate, weak, pain-wracked women, by the hundreds of thousands and this too in the privacy of their homes without their having to submit to indelicate questionings and offensively repugnant examinations.

Sick women are invited to consult Dr. Pierce by letter free. All correspondence held as sacredly confidential. Address World's Dispensary Medical Association, R. V. Pierce, M. D., President, Buffalo, N. Y.

Dr. Pierce's Great Family Doctor Book, The People's Common Sense Medical Adviser, newly revised up-to-date edition—1,000 pages, answers in Plain English hosts of delicate questions which every woman, single or married, ought to know about. Sent free, in plain wrapper to any address on receipt of 21 one-cent stamps to cover mailing only, or in cloth binding for 31 stamps.
